How To Buy Coffee.

troubles, and much morning discontent nd consequent ill temper throughout the day is caused by poor coffee, Everybody ought to be anxious to learn how to buy coffee of the right kind and how to make it right, and an interesting little book, entitled, "Coffee Hints," issued by Wm. Schotten & Co., the well-known coffee house, seems to fill the bill exactly.

Most people call for Java and Mocha coffee under the impression that they are getting a certain grade of coffee. This book tells us that such is not the case by any means, and that, while good coffee is raised both in Java and Mocha, very same places, so that the mere name really doesn't mean anything. The book further tells that really superior qualities of coffee are raised in different parts of the world, much of a very fine and choice character coming from Central America According to the Schotten idea the only way to get a coffee perfect in quality and always uniform in grade is to buy a coffee blended by experts and made of just the delicious and aromatic cup of coffee that everybody wants. Such a coffee is found in Schotten's 1904 Roasted Coffee, a new brand just placed upon the market, put up in pound cartons and selling at 25 cents. This coffee, according to the Schotten concern, is the equal of any 30-cent or 35-cent coffee on the market; its uniformity may always be confidently relied upon, and its selected goods, which combined, produce flavor and drinking qualities are perfect. The booklet referred to above makes very interesting reading, and is sent free to those who write to the Wm. Schotten Company for it.

Judge Reyburn Holds Springfield Ordinance Imposing Exorbitant License for Transient Store to Be Illegal.

The law which was passed two years ago mrking an attorney's fee a lien upon a judgment in favor of his client was passed on for the first time yesterday by the Court of Appeals and declared valid. Attorney Alexander Young represented Emily M. Imoden in a suit against A. H. Renshaw and others, in which she obtained judgment for $4,567.55 in the Circuit Court. The case was appealed, and the oppeal disdissed in the Supreme Court by the deendants.

The Circuit Court sustained him. In an opinion by Judge Bland, in which Judges Goode and Reyburn concurred, the court affirmed the finding of the Circuit Court .

The Appellate Court affirmed a judgment for $1.50 against Jacob I. Epstein in favor of Simon Van Raalte. Epstein was agent for Van Raalte, who owned property at No. 1821 La Salle street. Van Raalte authorized him to sell the property to a man who rented it, for $5.000, and later fixed the price at $4.500. The sale was not made, and Van Raalte traded the property for property on Fairmount avenue. The price of the La Salle street property being fixed at $4,400, and it was sold later to the man who rented it for E.750. Van Raalte charged that the man with whom he traded held the Fairmount avenue property in trust for Epstein. Judge Reyburn wrote the opinion, which was concurred in by Judges Bland and Goode.

No Changes in Hanner.

The Exposition flag originally adopted by the Board of Directors was reaffirmed yesterday by the directorate as the official banner. It was decided that the fleur de lis on the flag should remain, as the lilies were the flower of St. Louis, the city, which was named for the Bourbon Kmg.

The colors of the flag-red, white, blue and yellow-happen to be not only those of the United States, France and Spain, the three countries concerned in the history of the Louisiana domain, but they are the colors of the State of Missouri, and as such stand for the State in the flag.
